

Germany's first reef museum in the station of Gerstetten

A walk through the underworld of Gerstetten

Witnesses of the geological history of the Swabian Mountains and especially the Mountains of Gerstetten give to the visitors an extensive view in the time and the life 150 millions of years ago of our region.

The reef museum which is in the historical building of the station of Gerstetten you can call a speciality of the museums. The visitor enters into that reef, a paradise under sea with corals and sponges, and he sees the former underworld of the Jura Sea without any diving glasses or snorkel.

In this museum visitors can hear, that the coral fauna of Gerstetten belongs to the richest of this time. More than 150 kinds of corals could be found and still the research hasn't finished.

Opening time "Riff-Museum Gerstetten"

Sundays and holidays 10 a.m. – 5 p.m.
Groups with arrangement (guided tour 1 h)
phone 07323-8445
Fax 07323-8482
e-mail Riffmuseum@Gerstetten.de every time possible

Admission

Adults € 2.50 students/disabled persons € 1.50
Guided groups (10 - 20 persons) € 25.00 plus
€ 0.50 reduced enter each person

Special offers for groups

Guided trips in spring time and autumn for collecting fossils, instructions for the preserve technology of the exhibits; guided geological walking tours; covered wagon tours; from May to October trips with the historical steam engine locomotive and the railcar T06 over the plateau of the mountains (ask for the timetable)